Wie funktionieren Highland Games?

Die Highland Games sind eine moderne Fortsetzung einer keltischen Tradition. Hierbei wird der/die Beste auf verschiedenen Gebieten ermittelt. Queen Victoria hat 1848 nach einem Besuch der lokalen Highland Games in Braemar (hier baute sie auch das Balmoral Castle, den Sommersitz der Herrscherfamilie), die Tradition der Spiele sehr unterstützt und zu überregionaler Bedeutung verholfen. Heute gibt es fast in jedem Ort im Sommer Highland Games, die immer um die gleiche Zeit stattfinden, z.B. 2. Donnerstag im Juli.

Die Teilnehmer der Highland Games sind zum einen Profis, die von einem Game zum nächsten reisen und sich so ihren Unterhalt durch die Siegpriämien oder mit dem gewonnen Whisky verdienen. Andererseits gibt es die Möglichkeit für jedermann, an den Spielen teilzunehmen. Hier gibt es für überragende Leistungen dann Sachgeschenke, wie eben Whisky oder lokale Nahrungsmittel, Andenken usw. Kinder und Jugendliche erhalten für den Sieg Geldgeschenke von bis zu £ 50,-. Nehmen Sie doch auch einmal an einem Wettbewerb teil. Es findet sich sicher ein Leih-Schottenrock, der häufig Pflicht ist. Über die Veranstaltung wacht das jeweilige Clan-Oberhaupt, eine Art Patron. Es ist häufig ein alter Mann, der zwar schottische Tracht mit Rock trägt, aber irgendwie eleganter wirkt und stolz auf einen Stock oder Hirtenstab gestützt in der Mitte des Spielfeldes steht.

Es gibt bei den Highland Games mehrere verschiedene "Events", die Heavy Events, andere athletische Wettbewerbe, Tanzwettbewerbe, Musikwettbewerbe, Ausstellungen der örtlichen Farmer, Schafhüte-Wettbewerbe, Kirmes mit Karussells usw., Imbiss-Buden, Verkaufsbuden für alles von Kleidung über Andenken zu Antiquitäten.

Es wird für die Veranstaltung ein Eintrittsgeld erhoben.
